

The Best Ever Formula for Giving and Receiving Feedback Virtually

Feedback is core to building a performance culture within your organization; one where individuals, teams and the organization don't just survive, they thrive!

This 90 minute interactive session is intended to build your confidence and develop your skills to not only give feedback, but to receive it for maximum impact.

While much of the 'formula' remains consistent whether feedback is in person or virtual, we'll share some tips to ensure the virtual experience is just as effective for all involved.

Topics:

- What is a performance culture and why does effective feedback matter?
- Effective feedback is a human-centred process; develop your communication skills and build empathy
- The formula for success - it's all about the plan!

Facilitator:

Rachel Sumner, Barefoot Facilitation Inc.

www.trybarefoot.com