

Taking it Online: How to Up Your Game as a Virtual Facilitator

"We'll just deliver the session online."

Easier said than done, right? Successfully converting in-person sessions to a live, virtual space takes real work. Traditional methodologies need a makeover and developing ways to foster real human connection is critical.

The purpose of this interactive, virtual workshop is to help you reflect on, reinforce and improve your approach to designing and delivering live, virtual sessions. You will leave with a boost of confidence and practical tips to help you put some order and careful thought into how you host virtual meetings and learning experiences.

Learning Objectives:

- Understand the top 3 common mistakes made when converting from in-person to virtual delivery
- Describe the 3 critical steps to converting traditional in-person sessions to the live, virtual space
- Discover easy hacks to boost engagement during virtual sessions
- Explore practical tips for addressing various learning styles during live, virtual sessions
- Discuss strategies to effectively leverage and tackle the technology
- Identify personal goals for making your next virtual session something to talk about

Facilitator:

Gerard Murphy, Barefoot Facilitation Inc.

www.trybarefoot.com